The Leadership Intensives are designed to assist you to develop practical leadership and change management skills.

The co-design model modifies each course to suit the needs and concerns of the participants so you will be able to confidently tackle the issues you and your organisation face.

Past topics have included: influential leadership; business and funding models for the new environment; building person-centred services; connecting with government; and, strategic communications.

Inspiring speakers from government, academia and the social service sector have included former Victoria Police Commissioner Christine Nixon and Co-founder of the Safe Schools Coalition Victoria, Roz Ward.

'Current and interesting topics. Very relevant to my current role.
Great mix of people. Amazing speakers. Half a day is perfect.
Targeted and clear. Great course!'
- 2018 participant

About you:

Applicants must be working in a senior role in family violence prevention or response, or a related sector such as child and family services, homelessness, alcohol and other drug, financial support and disability services, health, local government, justice and education.
